Wally Crofts was among 75 people who had an opportunity to discuss political matters with Darcy McKeough, Minister of the Treasury, Economics and Intergovernmental Affairs. Mr. McKeough was at Wig-a-mog Inn, Monday night, along with Victoria-Haliburton Progressive Conservative candidate, Jim Webster.

McKeough is making no promises in election

Darcy McKeough, Minister of the Treasury, Economics and Intergovernmental Affairs, told Victoria-Haliburton Progressive Conservatives that they are campaigning this time without making promises.

Mr. McKeough was speaking to about 75 people at a barbecue held Monday night at Wig-a-mog Inn.

He said that the main taxes haven't been changed in 10 years in Ontario under Progressive Conservative rule. He pointed out that Liberal Leader, Stuart Smith, is not pointing this out when he complains about Ontario Hospital Insurance Plan and hydro rates going up.

Mr. McKeough then turned his attack to the New Democratic Party and stated, "The issue has never been as clear, it is them or us."

He said that they (New Democrats) are campaigning for more government and the Conservatives are campaigning for less government.

Mr. McKeough said that the idea is to "let the people do their own thing in Ontario."

He said that minority government is not an issue in this election.

"Minority government worked for a while in this province. Nevertheless, the accomplishments of the last year-and-a-half had nothing to do with the corridor politics of our opponents. We have made progress in this province because our government pursued the politics of goals," he said.

He noted that he didn't say much about the Liberal opponents, "they are irrelevant."

"If they are running on an irrelevant platform they have the perfect leader for it," he commented.

Government claims sewer projects in Haliburton County

Jim Webster, Progressive Conservative candidate for Victoria-Haliburton and Minden Villages got their sewer projects "without any great assistance or inauguration by any recent candidate."

He was speaking to about 75 people at a barbecue held at Wig-a-mog Inn, Monday night, which featured Darcy McKeough, the Treasurer of Ontario.

Mr. Webster said, sewer and water projects in the following areas: Minden, Fenelon Falls, Haliburton and Woodville, and sewer projects now in the engineering stage for Bobcaygeon were initiated and followed through by the Progressive Conservative government of Ontario.

In his speech, Mr. Webster outlined what he called facts about the success achieved for this province and riding by the Progressive Conservative government.

"It is a fact that the Davis government has provided here in Victoria-Haliburton, millions of dollars for facilities that benefit our community. In the past year, through the Ministry of Culture and Recreation and Wintario grants, 3.5 million dollars has been poured into Victoria-Haliburton for community centres, arenas, public libraries, the theatre arts, curling clubs, the Sir Sandford Fleming College, Lindsay Swimming Pool, Haliburton County Snowmobile Association; every municipality in this riding has received grants for some projects," he said.

He pointed out that through the Ministry of 289 want senior building work to start

Arthella Smith, a Haliburton resident, has sent a letter to the Ministry of Housing with 289 names, in favor of starting a senior citizen apartment building this summer.

In the letter to the Ministry, Mrs. Smith said,

"The attached petition is being presented to your department by a group of citizens of the Haliburton area who were most disappointed to learn that the project will not likely be begun until the spring of 1978."

Mrs. Smith went on to say, "According to your representative, Mr. Sid Palmer, the main reasons for this long delay were the water supply and the hiring of an architect, (though he did state that an earlier date might be arranged)."

She pointed out that it is understood that the water supply has already been secured and tested and "with so many senior citizens' apartments of this type now operating in Ontario, wouldn't it seem feasible that construction of the Haliburton units could be set ahead to this summer?"

Mrs. Smith added, "Since the need is urgent - some prospective residents have made application as long as three years ago -- any assistance your department can give would be much appreciated."

Mr. Palmer was at the May 9 meeting of Dysart et al council and at that time he said a tentative schedule had been set up for the construction of senior citizen housing units in Haliburton Village.

He told the council that the project was set to go in the spring of 1978, but that it possibly could be moved up.

Mr. Palmer said that the closing of the site has been delayed until the Ministry of Environment finishes doing tests on the quality of the water.

The site is on Mountain Street, behind the Anglican Church.

Mr. Palmer said that the schedule as of this time calls for the land acquisition in June, modified tender call in October, and a construction start in the spring of next year.

Deputy Reeve, Harold Bannon, said that he thought the construction would be done this year.

Mr. Palmer replied that if the dates can be moved up they will be.

He said that there is a preliminary design for the building and told the council that all 34 units planned may not fit on the site.

The 34 units were decided on by a need study conducted in the municipality this year.

A study conducted two years ago showed a need for 21 units.

Anson, Hindon, Minden 15 per cent tax increase

Residents of Anson, Hindon and Minden will experience a 15 per cent municipal tax increase this year.

Reeve, Reg Booth, told this newspaper that a great deal of the increase was due to matters out of the control of the municipal council.

He pointed out that there were increases in the school and county apportionments.

He pointed out that there were a number of other projects that had to be completed that contributed to the increase, including the work done on the Sunnybrook Bridge.

Reeve Booth said that the other expenses include the purchasing of equipment such as a new truck and grader.

A copy of the budget was not available to the newspaper at the time of publication but municipal clerk, Richard Parisotto, assured the newspaper that it would be available within the next few days.

Eakins says not taking credit for local sewers

John Eakins, Liberal candidate for Victoria-Haliburton, told this newspaper that he has not taken special credit for obtaining sewers for Haliburton and Minden Villages but that it was a matter of co-operation.

Mr. Eakins said, "Every community in Ontario is entitled to grants and subsidies in various provincial programs. These are not given as a gift from a political party, these are available to every municipality regardless of who is in power."

He noted that it is the duty and responsibility of every provincial member to make sure that the municipalities in their riding receive their fair share.

He pointed out that this is the part he has played in such things as the sewer project.

He said that the final acquisition of the sanitary system for Minden and Haliburton was brought about through excellent co-operation with the municipalities of Dysart et al and Anson, Hindon and Minden, the Ministry of Environment through the Minister, George Kerr and himself as the member for the riding.

"I certainly do not take any special credit for this accomplishment except to bring the various people together to point out the need especially since this had been pending approval for so many years," Mr. Eakins said.

Nothing can be accomplished, he noted, without the co-operation of the local municipalities.

New assessment figures

Municipal officials in Haliburton County have received a letter from the Ministry of Revenue with new assessment figures for the county.

The newspaper has learned that the Ministry of Revenue figures would help most of the municipalities who are appealing the apportionments in the county.

Police report that money was taken from the till and the safe and contents were removed.

Value of the theft is presently set at $3,000.

Hundreds participate in Fly-in

It looked like a scene from a World War I movie. Single-engined planes droned in circles above the grass-field air strip. More planes could be seen as black specks in the distance. In fact, it was this year's Stanhope Fly-in.

People walking along the hedged road bordering the landing strip ducked as a twin-engined Cessna came in low, just a minute behind another plane.

On the field, in front of the control tower more than 100 planes were lined up. Striding over the tower's green roof, controller, Derek Rolfe, talked into his grey headset instructing plane after plane onto the ground and into the lines.

More than 300 persons had come to the show in cars and they congregated around the tower to enjoy barbecued road beef and look at the parked planes. At the north side of the field was a Canadian Forces Buffalo, a plane larger than the control tower, its bay door down allowing curious visitors to climb in and look around. A few enterprising children turned the smooth part of the door into a slide.

The Buffalo's demonstration of short take-off capabilities (within 500 feet at a weight of 36,000 lb.) raised a cloud of "little stones, pieces of grass and small particles," said one spectator.

That was one of the events for a planned 70-minute airshow. Unfortunately, a small accident cut the show time down.

A second demonstration of a radio-controlled power-model airplane was eliminated when the model's engine cutout in mid-flight. An attempt to land ended in disaster when the small plane skidded into aircraft parked along the edge of the field.

Other features of the airshow were a glider acrobatic performance to music and display of two helicopters.

There were also prizes and draws and, of course, the planes parked all over the field.

Visitors and pilots strolled among them and children climbed up the wing steps to look at the controls. The variety of shapes and color of the aircrafts was a show alone.

It was also fascinating to watch the constant flow of planes coming in for the beginning of the show and then taking off again at the end. Great clouds of dust would blow up as the planes revved their engines for the takeoff.

The thrill of the Fly-in was the thrill of airplanes. Fascinating and complex instrument panels, the sound of powerful engines and dreams of the ability to soar in the air.

Summer Theatre to begin on July 4

Once again, come July 4th, Summer Theatre comes to Haliburton County. Each Monday evening at 8:30 p.m., at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School for the months of July and August, since 1970, the Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts have made it possible for the citizens of this County to enjoy live theatre productions without having to travel many miles to do so.

This season Theatre 5 from Kingston will be performing. "The atmosphere promises to be relaxed but exciting, that combination peculiar to good entertainment and of a calibre that truly is professional," a release stated.

"In the past the productions have been well patronized by vacationers but the need for our own citizens to be more supportive is great. If this support is not forthcoming this season, summer theatre at Haliburton may be a thing of the past," it said.

This season Theatre 5 from Kingston will be performing at the Summer Theatre in Haliburton. The theatre comes to Haliburton July 4 and will perform every Monday evening at 8:30 p.m. at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School during July and August. The theatre is sponsored by the Haliburton Guild of Fine Arts.

News from Extendicare

"What is so rare as a day in June," May gave us a nippy early morning on Saturday, but because we had anything perishable out of the way, no harm came. Mr. Walter Fogg, one of our residents, left us Monday morning for hospital care. We all wish him a quick recovery and return.

On the same day, the whole gang of us were invited to spend the day as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cooper, at their lovely cottage on Beech Lake. An added pleasure was a ride Mr. Cooper gave us in his seaplane. He could only accommodate one at a time. It is spectacular any time to see the many lakes, forests, roads and homesteads all laid out in a quilted fashion. It must take much experience to recognize one from the other. Still another pleasure to come was the lunch that was served. That day will long be remembered.

On our return home who was here to greet us but a former resident, Jack Gill. He was the same hale and hearty fellow that left us a couple of months ago. We will immediately put him to work.

Our resident of the week, Miss Alice Hartle, was born in Regina and while still an infant her parents moved to Minden where they kept a family store. Unfortunately, Alice had much illness that restricted her from the full enjoyment of a happy life. Nevertheless, she was always busying herself with scrapbooks and various forms of needlework. Alice enjoys it here and is popular with the residents. At our Valentine Day party, in February, she was crowned Valentine Queen. For some years Alice and her parents lived in Toronto where they also kept a family store. Whenever there is some interesting project in progress she is there to help, even if work is involved. There is, in addition to her in the family, one sister and a brother.

Those who can are busy getting ready for the Rodeo we are having June 10. There are targets to prepare for pie throwing, for ring throwing, for horseshoes, for lawn darts, and what not. It should be a humdinger of a do and we hope we have a right to expect a good turnout of the residents of the community.

Mr. Charles Rumbelow, one of our residents, was taken to Peterborough by ambulance on Friday, for further tests. We all wish him Bon Voyage.

Now and then Mrs. Mary Packard of the Haliburton Library brings her movie projector to us to show us some of the Canadian made releases that she thinks would be of interest to us. One she showed on Wednesday dealt with an excursion of Nahanni up the Laird and Nahanni Rivers in North British Columbia and the Yukon Territories. It would seem that Nahanni personified the lone wolf and a very remarkable vigor.

Our spiritual leader for the Friday morning devotional period was Rev. John Smith of the Lakeside Baptist Church. He pointed out the great comfort a christian receives at times of great sorrow and difficulties. Hearing of his own recent loss the Happy Gang is united in extending our sympathies.

In view of the splendid write up in The Canadian, May 21, it is significant that the issue of sex education in schools has not been raised in the current political campaign. No doubt it is an acceptance of the status quo on sex by the provincial leaders. If so, it is sincerely hoped that through the guidance of their teachers our grandchildren will acquire the ability to distinguish between right and wrong or wisdom and folly in their sex lives.

Fly-in and air show a success

It must have been a success as the turnout in both planes and visitors exceeded the planners' predictions. The Echo presents this Photo Feature as a record of the event, a major community occasion, involving local residents and aviators. The efficiency of the airshow and the smooth handling of both road and air traffic all combined to give the spectators an enjoyable day.

ABOVE...The sailplane piloted by Bogdan Wolski of Peterborough was popular at the airshow, attracting many close examinations while on the ground. The glider airbatic show was accompanied by music near the end, emphasizing the grace of the event.

LEFT...Steven Holt, 11, and Donnie Hutchinson, 5, both from Toronto, spent a great deal of their time at the airshow looking at the complex instrument panels of the aircraft parked on the field.

BELOW...Parking the planes was one of the more noisy jobs at the Fly-in. Committee members estimated 143 plans were at the event. It was also dusty as the wind created by the aircraft would blow up clouds from the dirt airstrip.

LEFT...Many of the spectators at the Fly-in spent most of their time glued to their binoculars, as did this man who was sitting at the end of the landing strip, in perfect position for a good view. The show was termed a delight for both young and old.

By Glenn Ross

BELOW...The Fly-in had a picnic air to it. There was a beef barbecue, sunshine, entertainment and of course lots of people. Most of the spectators congregated around the control tower. Air controller, Derek Rolfe, can be seen standing on top of the tower.

ABOVE...The Canadian Forces Buffalo was by far the biggest thing at the airshow, and one of the favorite visiting spots on the ground. The highlights of its display were a takeoff within 500 feet and a cruise past at more than 200 knots.

Senior housing should be built during the winter

The people of Dysart want senior citizens housing built as soon as possible in Haliburton Village. A petition circulated over the past couple of weeks was signed by almost 300 people to have the construction of senior citizen housing units set ahead to this summer.

We can see a difficulty in having the construction done this summer on senior citizen housing units. We understand that all of the plans are not quite finalized and as we can all guess, Queen's Park is in a little bit of a turmoil, one would suspect, until after the election.

By having a winter works' project to build the apartments, one would find that it would help with a number of problems in the Haliburton area.

The first thing is that the buildings would be constructed before the scheduled time, which would mean that the people needing them would be in that much sooner.

A second major factor in building in the winter is that it will help with the seasonal employment situation in Haliburton County. It would at least create some jobs during the winter.

Cancer Society has successful campaign

The local branch of the Canadian Cancer Society was successful in its annual campaign this year. The society collected a total of $2,589.43.

The Canadian Cancer Society has a long history of fine work but can only continue to do the work with funds from the general public. To get these funds from the general public, as in most cases, a large group of dedicated campaign workers are needed.

Maxine Curry, campaign chairman, in a news release last week said, "On behalf of the Canadian Cancer Society we wish to thank all the volunteer canvassers who made the report possible."

We at the Haliburton County Echo, would like to second that motion. Remember, nothing is a success without volunteer help.

For those of you who missed the first round of the Cancer Society's collection, Mrs. Curry also pointed out that anyone wishing to make contributions can do so by calling Mrs. Elwood Austin, in Haliburton.

Support still needed for Dysart Arena

The Dysart Community Centre still needs the support of the people before the repairs and improvements can be paid for. The fund, which is just reaching towards $16,000 needs to get as high as $25,000.

It has been repeated many times that a community centre is an important part of our life, especially in small towns.

We really depend on community centres for a great deal of our recreation. The Haliburton Rotary Club realizes the importance of the community centre and because of that took the task of raising money to make the repairs and improvements.

Now what is needed is for the local residents to get out and donate what they can to make this fund raising project a total success.

This Thursday is election day. This is the day that we will be electing a member of parliament from our riding of Victoria-Haliburton and a government for the Province of Ontario. Let's make sure that we have a big turnout at the polls and this can be assured if each and everyone of us gets out to vote.

Mrs. June Devolin will be the speaker at the June meeting of the Haliburton U.C.W. being held in the United Church on Monday, June 13, at 8 o'clock.

Don't forget that the 1st Annual Highland Home and Vacation Show will be held at the Haliburton Arena on June 17, 18, 19. This show will present building products and displays, new automobiles and specialty vehicles, boats and motors from fishing to the ultimate in water transportation, furniture, appliances, stereo systems, televisions, CB radios, canoes, fireplaces and home ideas. Also, try the Kin Kow Kicker, a gastronomic delight. 50-50 Draw (for Arena fund) and a dance Saturday night to Carmen Peters band. It is also your opportunity to see the 1977 Kin-Blazer on public display for the first time. It's all being sponsored by the Kinsmen Club of Haliburton.

Rev. Douglas S. Warren will be the guest speaker when the Full Gospel Businessmen hold their monthly dinner at Deer Lodge, at Haliburton, on Saturday evening, June 18th, commencing at 7:00 p.m.

Editor's notebook

BY JIM BADGLEY

The type of work one does in any field eventually comes up for public scrutiny. It just happens that in the newspaper business it comes up for the scrutiny faster.

Last week (Friday to be exact) I was verbally attacked by a resident of the area for the work that I do. This isn't the first time I have been criticized and hopefully it won't be the last, but it is the first time any person has chosen an audience of about 10 people, some of them my friends to level the criticism at me.

He said that The Echo does not have as much news as he would like to see. He suggested to all of the people in the room that perhaps another newspaper should be bought in its place.

He insinuated that The Echo does not cover the news well enough in Haliburton Village for his liking. He made it quite clear that in all likelihood The Echo and its staff was not very competent at all.

The fellow, who works for a local business, has every right to his opinion about The Echo. He has every right to voice it whenever and wherever he wants. What I don't understand, though, is why he would choose doing it in front of 10 people with a verbal attack of the newspaper and its policies, levelling them at an employee of the paper.

We, at The Echo, would be glad to give him a bigger audience. If he has the guts to write a letter, explaining why he personally doesn't like The Echo, and in particular, why he doesn't like me, we would be glad to publish it.

I can take criticism, I have spent enough years in the newspaper business to realize that what I do on my job is public. What I don't need though is having a person tell me they don't like me when they have only spoken to me once before.

I don't like the same person saying I don't know how to do my job when it became quite obvious that when asked, he had no sound reason for the remarks he was making.

I don't think it is very funny. If the person was trying to be funny. My friends can make jokes about me or around me and my work. People I don't know should think twice before levelling the criticism about me personally.

The person said that we (The Echo) shouldn't be read because more local news (about Haliburton Village) can be found elsewhere.

I like to think that people buy The Echo because we offer a wide range of news coverage in Haliburton County. We try to provide the people with as much coverage as possible, for as low cost as possible.

The fellow, so he will realize who he is, did his criticizing while I was talking to Reeve Murray Fearrey.

This fellow, who remains nameless, works for a company in town, a store, which is not above criticism.

I just happened to be in the store this fellow works in, last week, helping a friend shop around for what was to be an expensive purchase.

This fellows store wanted $50 more for a product than stores with the same line in a city that is only about 100 miles away.

Funny thing is that I didn't run out to the first 10 people I could find and tell them it would be best going to the competition than dealing with the store that this fellow works for.

I didn't and still don't see any need for publicly ridiculing this fellow or the type of word he does. I just won't buy anything from him.

The possibility is there that he cost his store quite a bit of money in business over the next few years.

One shouldn't treat potential customers the way he did.

If this person wants to debate the merits of the Haliburton County Echo in public, I will do so with him. I will do it in front of as many people as he wants. But unlike his last verbal attack he had better have proof and facts because I do.

If he wants a wide audience to express his beliefs, let him send a letter to the editor, sign it and put his address and phone number on it. Something even better would be that he put the business he works for down on the letter, as well and explain why they charge more for their products than competitors do. I don't think his boss would like that?

As others see it

Dear Sir:

Last Saturday, I visited your office, but unfortunately it was closed. It was my first visit to Haliburton since 1923 when I left at the age of four years old. Being recently transferred from Montreal to Toronto, it made such a trip more feasible.

My father, Frederick Arthur Hiscock, I believe, was the Bank Manager there of the Bank of Montreal from 1918, 1919 to 1923. In trying to find some history of my early years, we went to the Library where we could not find any link, but was referred to the Variety Store on the Main Street.

There, I talked to a man who remembered my Dad and our English Bulldog, and was referred to Mr. M.O. Austin of Maple Street. He told us he used to work for my father as a young boy and that we originally lived in the house next to Western Tire "Lakeview", and then moved to a house on the corner opposite City Hall on Maple a few doors down from where Mr. Austin now lives. I believe there was a doctor living next door to us (Dr. Bell?). This, I believe, was the house I was born in.

I was wondering if you have on file old copies of the newspaper between 1919 - 1923, and if it would be possible for me to go through them for news of the Hiscock family. I believe I have some old pictures of Haliburton packed away someplace, and if you are interested, I could let you see them (I notice in last week's paper you published an old picture).

I could arrange another drive to Haliburton - it is certainly beautiful Country.

Sincerely,
Arthur F. Hiscock

To the Editor:

I am surprised to hear that there is a "public outcry" over the fact that some people enjoy tennis enough to organize a Tennis Club.

Neither the Municipal council nor the Rotary Club have the time or funds to spare to maintain and improve the courts. Who is left except a tennis club?

Lights, nets and court maintenance all cost money. Where does it come from except from people who play tennis enough to care about it.

If these people organize themselves and contribute membership fees why shouldn't they have priority. The club is made up of the "public" not some secret society. Anyone interested in playing tennis can join. The open hours are for tourists and those who are not limited to after working hours.

There is no reason to feel that the tennis club is a conspiracy to keep people from using the courts, rather it is an attempt to make the courts better for everyone's use.

Can you suggest a better way for those using the courts to contribute to their upkeep? If so, please let the executive of the club know, as they have been working long and hard to arrive at a fair solution and would welcome any constructive ideas.

Sincerely,
Judith Creelman

It is comforting to know that the U.S. administration says it's ready to do its bit for world economic and monetary stability by not reacting with import restrictions or any other defensive actions to offset its probably 1977 merchandise trade deficit of $23 billion.

But before we start throwing bouquets and sending congratulatory notes to President Jimmy Carter for his selflessness and largesse, a little analysis of U.S. trade and current account positions seems in order.

The huge deficit being piled up, it turns out, is almost entirely due to oil imports, which will total $40 billion this year, and help make the wealthy Opec nations wealthier. U.S. trade with the rest of the world, which registered a $16 billion surplus last year, is expected to remain in healthy surplus again this year - and little wonder. U.S. competitiveness in the all-important manufacturing sector has been strengthening steadily since its low point in 1972.

The trade component, however, is only one column of the ledger when it comes to defining fundamental economic health. Equally crucial are international transactions in services, mostly reflecting, in the case of the U.S., net income from investments abroad, and military sales abroad.

The U.S. surplus in services, which ran more than $13 billion in 1976, will probably climb to more than $15 billion this year. That will leave the U.S. with a current account deficit of perhaps only $7 billion, due almost entirely to the insatiable U.S. appetite for oil.

Despite the merchandise trade figures, therefore, the U.S. is in far better overall health than most of its trading partners, and the current strength of the U.S. reflects it. Some nations appear healthier on the basis of the merchandise trade ledger only. West Germany and Japan, for example, run sizeable deficits on international services, which is seldom pointed out when an accusing finger is pointed at them for running merchandise trade surpluses in these trying times.

Canada, which has always counted on merchandise trade surpluses to help counter the perennial and growing deficit on the services side, continues to suffer mightily alongside the U.S. Our international balance-of-payments deficit this year on current account (goods and services combined) will come in at around $4 billion. That's more than half the size of the 10-times-bigger American economy's projected deficit.

In short, the U.S. sacrifice in the name of international stability is costing a lot less than its big merchandise trade deficit would suggest. But, given the fragile nature of international economic recovery, it's certainly better than panic policies designed to quickly end the red ink at everyone else's expense.

Great feelings

One of the deepest satisfactions in writing a column of this kind is the knowledge that you are getting into print the angers and frustrations of a lot of other people, who have no recourse for their resentments, and consequently take them out on the old man or the old lady.

How do you know this? Well, because people write you letters cheering you on to further attacks, and other people come up to you, perfect strangers, shake hands warmly, and say "By the Holy Ole Jumpin' Bill, you really hit the nail on the head."

This can be a little disconcerting, as you are never quite sure which nail they are referring to. If the congratulator is a woman, I smile weakly and change the subject. Because sure as guns, though she thought you were one of nature's noblemen for your assault on male chauvinism last week, she'll turn on you like a snake when she reads tomorrow's paper, with the column exposing female chauvinism.

Speaking recently to a class of potential writers in a creative writing course, I tried to pass along the personal satisfaction one gets from this type of personal journalism.

I emphasized the "personal" satisfaction because there's a lot more of that involved than there is of the other kind, financial satisfaction. Columnists and freelance writers have no union working for them, nor any professional association, as have doctors, lawyers, teachers.

They have only their own talent and wit and perseverance with which to penetrate the thick heads and thicker skins of editors and publishers.

But it's a great feeling when you vent your wrath, say, about the rapaciousness of mechanics, and you are button-holed six times in the next three days by people with horror stories about mechanics you can scarcely believe.

Trouble is, they all want you to write another column about mechanics, and but some real meat into it. This means, in effect, that they would happily stand in the wings and applaud when you were sued for libel.

Some readers would like you to be constantly attacking whatever it is that they don't like. Capitalist friends are aghast when you refuse to launch an assault on capital gains taxes. Welfareist friends think you are a traitor and a funk when you won't attack the government for not providing color TV for everyone on the take.

I am not by nature an attacker, and I think there is nothing more boring than a writer of any kind who tries to make a career of being a "hard hitting" journalist.

Once in a while my gently bubbling nature boils over. Throwing caution and syntax to the winds, I let my spleen have a field day and try to throw some sand in the grease with which many aspects of society are trying to give us a snow job. And that's one of the finest paragraphs I've ever written, if mixed metaphors are you bag.

Fair game for the hard-hitter are: garage mechanics, plumbers, postal workers, supermarkets, civil servants, and politicians. Most of them can't hit back, and everybody hates them, except garage mechanics and their wives, plumbers and their wives, etc. etc.

Smaller fry are doctors, lawyers, teachers, used car salesmen. They all squeal like dying rabbits when attacked, but nobody pays much attention to them except doctors and their wives, etc. etc.

There are a few areas that even the hardest-hitters avoid. When have you, lately, read a savage attack on greedy farmers, callous nurses, or unloving mothers? And yet, there are lots of them around.

One of these days, perhaps, one of these hard hitting writers will muster enough guts, after about five brandies, to launch an all-out attack on the audacity of women, thinking they're as good as men. Boy, that fellow will learn what real hard hitting is all about.

Personally, I can't stay mad at anybody long enough to be a voice of the people, or a public watchdog, or any of those obnoxious creatures who try to tell other people how they should feel.

The only constant in my warp and wriggle and squirm and bribe for self-perpetuation in office. Best example at the moment is the Tory government in Ontario, which has called a totally unnecessary election in that province through sheer hunger for greater power.

Otherwise, I get a great deal more joy from touching the individual life than inflaming the masses. When I get a letter from an old lady in hospital, crippled with arthritis, who has managed to get a chuckle out of my column, it makes me feel good.

Recently, I got a letter from a young Scot who has immigrated to Canada. He says: "I have learned more about Canada and Canadians through reading your column than all the accumulated wisdom from the Canadian newsmagazines, novels and TV programs I have absorbed."

Now there is a man with his head screwed on right. If I, as a newcomer, tried to get my impressions of this country from newsmagazines and TV programs, I'd catch the first boat or plane home.

So, I guess I'll just try to go on talking to people, getting sore, having some fun, bragging about my grand-boys, looking for sympathy in the war between the sexes. That's what life is all about, not plumbers and politicians and other horrors of that ilk.

ASK ABOUT OUR USED CAR

Many of our top-condition used cars qualify for our Mechanical Repair Protection which protects against the cost (subject to a $25 deductible) of repair and replacement of specified major parts of the vehicle: engine, transmission, drive axle, steering, brakes, electrical system and air conditioner (if factory installed). If one of these parts breaks down, the bill is paid (subject to a $25 deductible) under the terms of the protection agreement. You also get car rental reimbursement protection — if your car has to stay in the shop at least one night for repairs of parts covered under the agreement. Why not visit our used car lot today, or tonight. Look for the Mechanical Repair Protection vehicle qualification stickers.

Still need for senior housing in Minden

Anson, Hindon and Minden council has re-affirmed its position concerning senior citizen housing in the municipality with a letter to the Ministry of Housing.

Reeve, Reg Booth, told this newspaper that the letter was sent to the Ministry of Housing by the municipal clerk at the advice of council.

Mr. Booth said that the council has been trying for about three years to get senior citizen housing but the doors have been shut at Queen's Park since the election was called.

"We were told by two government officials that we had the green light on the project but we never had it in writing," he said.

He said that the council was reminding the government that they can start on the project as soon as possible.

McLaughlin explains political "reality"

Fred McLaughlin, New Democratic Party candidate for Victoria-Haliburton, explained what he called the reality of the political situation in the riding, in a release this week.

Mr. McLaughlin said, "The Liberal Party seems to be going nowhere fast as their performance in the last legislature indicates. Although I have a great respect for Mr. Ekins, I believe that, because of the political reality, we could end up with a very weak voice in the legislature should he be re-elected. This, of course, does not reflect in any way on Mr. Ekins' ability but is a product of our institutional framework."

He went on to say, "If on the other hand Mr. Webster is elected and the Conservative government has a majority, we will have to spend the next four years putting up with the uncaring attitude of Tory rule which we experienced for more than thirty years."

He commented on what he called a few of the problems created by the Conservative government which affect us.

"One is the breakdown of local communities created by the Tory Regional Government policy. There is no room left for people like you and me to participate in local government in this policy. And, any problems the people may have get caught up in a very costly bureaucratic red tape," he said.

Mr. McLaughlin noted that the sellout of our resources to foreign countries has cost us jobs which are badly needed here. "Jobs have literally been exported along with our raw resources. This unimaginative approach to economic expansion has been responsible, in part, for our high unemployment and has caught up with us in 1977," he said.

One of the problems facing us today, in Victoria-Haliburton, is the decline in tourism, he noted. This can be attributed to the response of the Conservative government, or rather lack of response, to the environmental problems of our lakes and rivers, and also to the lack of response of the government to the plight of the small businessman.

"There seem to be a contempt for the environment in the Conservative government and also for those who depend on nature for their livelihood. Mr. Newman, the Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, said in effect, that he couldn't understand why all the fuss about our polluted lakes and rivers because, after all, we still have some 1,400 clean lakes. Will they wait until that figure declines to one before taking any action? It is hard to believe that we have people representing us in government who have such little sensitivity for our environment," Mr. McLaughlin said.

Mr. McLaughlin said that it is all well and good for him to criticize the government on its management of the social and economic life of Ontario. "It is quite

POLLS open at 9:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. (local times) on Election Day, June 9th

If your name is on the New list of voters, you are eligible to vote in this Ontario Provincial Election. To make it as convenient as possible, the polling places in each district are centrally located in your area. An attempt has also been made to make polling places as accessible as possible for physically handicapped and elderly voters. Check your proof of enumeration, Form 103, for the address of your polling place.

On the wall of each polling place, directions for marking your ballot will be in plain view. If you have any other questions, ask the person who gives you your ballot. Vote by marking only the circle after the candidate's name of your choice.

Water storage down

Reservoir storage available declined since last week to a level 82 per cent of maximum on Monday, May 30. This resulted from increased outflows needed to maintain navigation levels in the Kawartha Lakes downstream. Evaporation in the Kawarthas averaged somewhat less than 1/4 inch per day. This is very close to the high losses experienced in previous summers.

Otonabee river discharges are still being held in the 500 to 600 cfs range, a bare minimum for operation. The average flow for May this year was the lowest since flows have been recorded beginning in 1913.

Boaters are reminded about the speed limit signs which are now being placed in certain areas along the Waterway.

These signs are circular and have a white background with an orange border and a black number. Signs are either situated on a post on the shoreline or on a small white buoy close to the navigation channel. The speed limits will be either 4, 6 or 8 m.p.h. and this can be enforced by the police under the Boating Restriction Regulations of the Canada Shipping Act.

Work by a canal construction crew will begin on the concrete restoration of Big and Little Bob dams within the next week or so as part of an ongoing maintenance program.

This and That

BY JENNIFER WOODS

When we have company for dinner I usually serve a steak fondue. It is extremely easy to prepare and lots of fun to eat. Any meal where your guests cook their own dinner sounds great - don't you agree?

I use a polyunsaturated fat for the fondue, usually corn oil as it is easily available and heat it on the stove in the fondue container until the oil is very hot. Then, I place it over the flame. This saves your "fondue fuel". Personally, I prefer Methyl Hydrate to the expensive fuel you pay for labelled "fondue fuel". It burns clean and easily and must be treated with respect as you would any fuel you burn - but it is much much cheaper.

On the table I place plates of chopped sirloin steak, chopped cauliflower, mushrooms fresh and whole, and cherry tomatoes. These will be cooked in the fondue oil. I make a Soy Garlic Sauce for the meat and a Hot Tomato Sauce. Then for the vegetables I make a Curried Mayonnaise Sauce. Garlic bread, baked potatoes and spinach salad (recipe coming next week) finish the main course.

SOY GARLIC SAUCE

Mix 1/4 cup of Soy Sauce with 1 tsp. of garlic powder. Blend very well. Serves four.

HOT TOMATO SAUCE

Blend 1/2 cup tomato sauce with 1/4 cup finely chopped onions and 2 shakes of Tobasco Sauce. Serves four.

CURRIED MAYONNAISE SAUCE

This is very easy. Simply blend 1 cup of mayonnaise with 1 tsp. of curry powder. The hot vegetables taste delicious dipped in this sauce.

If you don't want to use steak, use pork or chicken. I end our fondue with a light dessert and perked coffee. You will eat for hours. Most people who eat a fondue for the first time start in with great gusto then slow down, too full to go on. In a few minutes they usually start in again. This is why it can go on for so long. We went to our friends, years ago, for our first fondue. We sat down to eat at 8:30 and at one we were still at the table eating and talking. We realized the time and said "well we hate to eat and run, but..." It was a great introduction for us and we have been enjoying them ever since.

If you haven't had a Steak Fondue for a while, I hope I have talked you into starting again.

Perhaps the greatest gift grandparents have for their grandchildren are their stories of how it used to be. Having the good fortune of being close to my grandmother in my younger days my eyes were opened wide on many occasions. One story, which was almost always prefaced with a version of "getting up at 5 am to work a loom in the cotton mills of England at the age of twelve" and always told with just the right amount of hush, followed by gales of laughter the likes of which are only somewhat approximated in the roar of the North Sea, described the subversive act of reading in her family back in the late 1800's. Reading was apparently frowned upon as a waste of available working time and only the cunning managed to hide their books well enough and find ways to be alone for a chapter or two here and there. Being particularly cunning, and if it be allowed "favourably delinquent", she followed her own dictum "no such word as can't" and read her favourites over and over again. It was a good story every time I heard it and her passion for reading stayed with her all her life.

My own story begins in exact opposition to her experience. I shared my earliest years with the inception of T.V. and it wasn't long before books seemed only to remind me of incomplete homework. I spent a good deal of my inherited cunning hiding from books and only much later did I rediscover the pleasure to be found in reading.

Arriving in Haliburton last fall I hear rumour of a public library. Coming from a large city I wasn't sure what to expect. I was taken aback. Unlike the libraries I had grown accustomed to in my

Obituary

Richard Earl Smith, born February 26, 1958, died at Plains Hospital, Regina, on May 27, 1977, as a result of a car accident in Moose Jaw on April 25, 1977.

Richard leaves to mourn, his father and mother, the Rev. and Mrs. John E. Smith and his seven brothers and sisters; Robert, Keith, Karen, Philip, Cathy, Stephen and Miriam.

The Funeral Service was held at the United Church in McCord, Saskatchewan. Rev. Donald Jones officiated. The Service took place on Tuesday, May 31, 1977. The pallbearers were members of the local hockey team that Richard played on last winter. Some of the fellows with whom he worked sang two selections during the service. Interment took place at the McCord Cemetery.

Rev. and Mrs. John E. Smith, and family, would like to thank all who have stood by them during the month. For the gifts of money and time and especially, your prayers, they say thank you. They are assured that Richard is with the Lord. Praise be His name.

Growing up with television and books like homework school days where if the Boston fern couldn't be heard growing there was too much talking going on, the Haliburton library is a place to be enjoyed and certainly one of the friendliest places in Haliburton. As well, the variety and availability of all kinds of literature makes membership a very worthwhile proposition. If you have an interest it is quite likely that the library has or is able to obtain books that can expand your interest and enjoyment. Haliburton itself of course takes it's name from a Canadian author, Judge T.C. Haliburton, the creator of "Sam Slick", and it is fitting that such a good library exists here. If you haven't taken a close look lately maybe now is the time. No need to hide any longer - the 1800's have sped by. Get down to the library and turn yourself in. Submissively submitted to the Echo on behalf of the Haliburton Public Library.

Practical Meat Savings
Before buying beef in quantity for your freezer, obtain the following information:
1. How can you be sure of quality?
Your best assurance of quality is to buy from a reliable dealer. Look for well-trimmed, evenly marbled beef with a clear red colour in the flesh and firm white fat.
2. How can you be sure it's a good buy?
First determine the total cost of the usable meat. For example, 25% of the hanging weight of a 150-lb. forequarter would yield about 115 lbs. of take-home cuts. If the untrimmed meat cost 70¢ a lb., the retail cuts remaining after trimming would cost an average of 91¢ a lb.
Find out about extra charges for wrapping, cutting, or fast freezing, then add them to the total cost of the meat.
The alternative to buying in large quantities is to stock up on retail cuts your family really likes, when they're on sale at your IGA store.

Congratulations to Dick Stouffer, Pete McElwain, Lorrie Burk and Lynn Finlay for their efforts in the Kawartha Archery Tournament, May 26 at Lakefield. Even though they bettered our last year's championship score by over 230 points, they ended up 49 points behind 3rd place Adam Scott. Special congratulations to Pete McElwain who was our top scorer, finishing fourth over all in the individual standings and scoring the only perfect end of any Haliburton archer this year.

On Tuesday, May 24, our track and field team travelled to Peterborough to compete in the COSSA meet. Our place winners from COSSA were Larry Stinson (2nd-200m, 4th-hurdles), Tim Oram (2nd-Discus), Doug MacNab (3rd-Discus), Craig Kennedy (3rd-Triple Jump), and Bart Barnes (4th-Discus). These five boys all qualified to compete in the East Regional Meet, in Oshawa, Saturday, May 28. The top three place winners in Oshawa went to Sudbury to compete in the all Ontario meet Friday, June 3 and Saturday, June 4. Congratulations to our only qualifier, Tim Oram, who finished 3rd in the senior boys' discus in the eastern regionals.

The Instrumental Music Program's 2nd annual spring concert presented June 1 in the H.H.S.S. auditorium, was a great success. Miss McKen and her bands received a standing ovation at the close of their popular music program.

On May 31, all grade 12 and 13 students were invited to attend a "Meet the Candidates" assembly. Fred McLaughlin, NDP, John Ekins, Liberal, and Jim Webster, PC, all talked about the election issues and their intentions in solving these problems. Students were able to question and meet with the candidates as individuals.

Most students are busy preparing for their final examinations to be written June 13-20.

Physical fitness

by Margaret Milne

Earlier in this series of articles on fitness, I stated that walking and running had become my favorite type of exercise. Now, perhaps that was not quite true. For while walking and running have won my favor for being convenient, enjoyable and available year round, there is one exercise I always prefer when it's available: swimming. Swimming seems to call up strong feelings in people generally. While some of us are wanting to jump in as soon as the ice goes out of the lakes, others would need a three week heat wave to drive them in.

Living, as we are, in a region of many lakes and rivers, swimming is more than an enjoyable and health-giving recreation. It is potentially a life-saving skill. It seems to me that all children should be taught the necessary skills and knowledge to handle themselves safely in and around water, and some basic life-saving as well. I hope we may soon have a school pool for this purpose.

Another good reason to learn to swim is that it is good exercise for the whole body. Swimming exercises more muscles than running, and in a more balanced way. Runners develop strong backs and legs, but may become stiff if they don't do stretching exercises to counteract the one-sided effect of all the forward motion. Because of the way the body moves in the water, though, swimming exercises the limbs in more than one direction. For this reason it is naturally more relaxing and a less tense way of moving.

And, finally, there is the very good reason that most often gets us into the swim: to cool off. How pleasant it is that I can be coolest at the end of exercising at the hottest time of the year.

Now, the warm-up for swimming presents a bit of challenge for me. I wanted to continue the calisthenics that I usually used before running. But we swim at a public beach in view of a highway and I'd feel silly doing them there. I considered doing warm-ups at home and running to the beach. But there was some delay involved in gathering the four children and the dog who wished to go along. So I decided to do the warm-up in the water. This came naturally enough as my usual "fun" activities in the water are somersaults, jumping on and off the raft, etc. - surely enough to get the circulation going. If you have more private surroundings, or few hangers-on than I do, you can work out a more dignified and business like approach to this problem!

From the Chamber

BY BOB STINSON

Our new signboard is now in place, in front of the Minden Office. In the one short week it has been installed it has certainly proved to be an attention getter. We have noted with interest that visitors driving into our parking area tend to walk over the sign and examine it first before coming into our office.

We are very sure that the members who took advantage of advertising on this signboard will find it very worthwhile and that considerable benefit will be gained through the bulletin board section in the centre. Our first coming event to be advertised on this bulletin board is the County Fair Board upcoming Beef Barbecue on June 11th. If you keep us informed we can get your coming events up in lights also.

It was the suggestion of some of the advertisers on this signboard that we investigate the possibilities of acquiring a phone booth for the same area. The Bell Telephone has agreed to install one and have promised to have it in place within the next few weeks.

The Haliburton Guild of Fine Arts inform us that this year they have changed their format somewhat for their summer exhibition and sale. The sale this year will run for 10 days, from July 6 to 17, with hours from 11 - 9, Monday to Saturday, and 1 - 4 on Sundays, at the Haliburton Senior Elementary School. This popular event attracts many people from the city and in fact some tourists even plan their holidays around the dates of this exhibition and sale.

The Haliburton County Social Planning Council recently produced a 48 page directory of community services in Haliburton County. This very complete directory tells you who to get in touch with and where for virtually every type of service organization that exists in our area, such as churches, clubs, government agencies and privately owned recreational facilities. This valuable book is available at only $2.50, which barely covers the cost of producing it, and can be purchased from the Chamber of Commerce Office or at the School of Fine Arts in Haliburton. We make use of our copy almost every day.

It has been often said that Haliburton needs a good boat tour facility. Well we almost have one now. We say almost because beginning this summer there will be a boat tour available in Dorset which is in Haliburton but the tour takes place on Lake of Bays which is in Muskoka. It's a step in the right direction and we welcome Captain Doug Russell of Muskoka Boat Tours to the area. If this operation is successful, maybe the next step will be to get a full pledged boat tour on one of our own lakes in the not too distant future.

Our Young Canada Works Program "Spruce up for Tourism" will be getting underway towards the end of this month. The local students that will be working on this project are Andy Hill, Sheila Elder and Carl Northey. We look forward to seeing the paint brushes in action.

Our Canada Manpower office, in Haliburton, has been extremely busy this spring placing employees and students in the many programs that are now underway. They do advise us that at the moment in many categories they have more openings than they have job applicants. This is particularly true in the area of skilled labour. We would like to remind everyone that the Manpower Office cannot help you unless you are registered and that it costs nothing to register. This is our Canada Manpower office, let's make sure we make good use of it.

This week's "tip of the hat" goes to Stinson's Store at Carnarvon. Doreen and Leonard Stinson (no relation to the writer) have been dispensing goods and hospitality in that area for over 15 years. There are not many places left these days where you can stop in for a cup of tea served in a silver pot, with a china tea-cup and have a slice of homemade bread and a piece of homemade pie, and Leonard's homemade pies are becoming famous. In addition to that, the homey atmosphere of their facilities makes one really feel comfortable. With this busy operation they have also still found time to get deeply involved in all forms of community affairs. These folks are not only good for tourism, they are good for our community.

It's that time again when the watchword is "Vote as you like - but vote". We would like to add to that that voting is not just a right, it's a responsibility, and it is the responsibility to use it wisely. The Chamber does not take sides in elections, we can only ask that you give serious thought and consideration to who you are voting for and why.

Minden News

by Jeanne Sears

Sgt. and Mrs. Dennis Moore, of Halifax, N.S., are visiting Mr. & Mrs. Bill Moore and other relatives and friends.

The Women's Institute had an executive meeting at the library Friday afternoon and planned the programmes for the coming year.

The clock radio, raffled by the Minden Scouts, had as winner Ernie Walton of South Lake.

Chris and Eddie Pergolas enjoyed a visit with Mr. & Mrs. Joseph Partout of Buffalo, N.Y.

Congratulations to Karen Arbutnot on winning the Jackpot of $250 at Rotary Bingo last Thursday night, in 57 numbers.

Mr. & Mrs. Angus Coulter and Garnet Coulter, visited Mr. & Mrs. Abe Upton at Upperton on Sunday.

The 70th Anniversary Women's Institute Luncheon party will be at United Church Hall on June 15th, at 12:30 and any former members are welcome to join us at this.

Mr. & Mrs. Archie Stouffer, of Pembroke, visited friends, relatives and neighbors in the area last week.

Visitor with her sister Mrs. Wm. Cox was Cora Switzer of Lindsay.

Don't forget to come and see the free School Fair Display from Archie Stouffer Public School, at the Hyland Crest Auditorium, Sunday afternoon, June 19th, from 1:30 - 4 p.m. Winning entries from these will be shown at the Fair in August.

Once again a request, we wonder if you have found among your parents or grandparents papers some Women's Institute Minute Books. There are several of these missing and Minden W.I. is anxious to recover these as they have a safe place to store them. These are record books in black with red binding. If you find any of these, please drop them in at the village library as they are truly invaluable.

Last Wednesday morning a Travelways Bus chartered by the Women's Institute, left early, via Haliburton and Bancroft, for their Annual Bus Trip. After a coffee break near Madoc and chance to stretch their legs, the happy crowd were off again for Kingston.

Reaching the Queen St. United Church a little early, many went upstairs to have a look at the Church itself, formerly a Methodist one, built in 1886.

Then, all were ready for the buffet luncheon, with a goodly supply prepared and great tea and coffee.

From here our genial, and well informed driver, Bill Holland, took us to the home of Sir John A. MacDonald. After this tour a drive through the historic setting, including a view of the first Canadian Parliament Buildings and the penitentiary. Then, on to Fort Henry, passing through the earlier settlement with buildings in native limestone and seeing the ferries en route to some of the islands. Historic Fort Henry has the traditional military setting and well informed guides showed us around and answered our questions.

Cameras were out on this pleasant day and many will have their personal views to show later.

After this, on to a Shopping Mall, most shops closing at 5:30, and after supper, rather foot-sore, the crowd were back on board. One more stop for coffee or lunch was the last break on our way home. The old favorites were sung en route, noisily, sometimes not too tunelessly, and soon we were back in our County.

FOREST FIRE QUIZ #1

How much do you really know about forest fires?

Statistics show that we don't know as much as we think we do, because every year people continue to be a major cause of forest fires throughout Ontario. Test your knowledge of the causes, cures and costs of forest fires. Read the questions below and tick the answer you think is correct. When you're finished, check your answers against the right ones and see how much you really know.

- Every year forest fires cost Ontario taxpayers approximately:
(a) One million dollars (b) Twenty million dollars (c) Six million dollars
- A restricted Fire Zone means:
(a) Smoking is prohibited in the area
(b) No one is allowed in the area because of the fire danger
(c) Campfires are temporarily banned
- Smoking while you walk in the woods is:
(a) Unhealthy (b) Dangerous (c) Illegal (d) All of the above
- In Ontario, in an average year, how many forest fires are caused by children playing with matches?
(a) 50 (b) 20 (c) 140
- It is hazardous to pile stones around your campfire because:
(a) The hot rocks will start a fire
(b) The stones could hide a live ember that could continue to burn even after you think you've extinguished the fire
(c) The rocks around the campfire will force sparks up into the tree tops
(d) All of the above
- Failure to comply with any section of The Forest Fires Prevention Act of Ontario can result in:
(a) A $1000 fine
(b) Three months in jail
(c) Liability for fire fighting costs
(d) All of the above

ANSWERS

'(P) 9 '(Q) 5 '(C) 1 '(P) 3 '(C) 2 '(Q) 1

Ratings: Six correct — you sure know your stuff

Four correct — above average

Less than four — you can pick up a copy of The Forest Fires Prevention Act from your nearest Ministry Office.

Elaboration on any of the answers given here is available from any office of the Ministry of Natural Resources.

This is the first in a series of four quizzes developed to increase public awareness of the forest fire problem in Ontario. Look for the others in recent editions of this paper, or get all four together in one folder from your nearest Ministry Office.

This year, let's not set the woods on fire.

1,500 attend Eakins rally

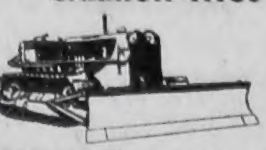

Over 1,500 people turned up at the Ops Community Centre, Friday, for what Liberal candidate, John Ekins, called the biggest rally of the election campaign in Victoria-Haliburton.

Mr. Ekins told those in attendance that he made no promises before the last election and he is making none now.

He said that he is committed to giving the people access and service to Queen's Park.

Mr. Ekins said that he will keep the people of the riding informed on matters at Queen's Park through the various news media in the county.

The Haliburton Ladies Softball Club came up with a 17-9 win over Gooderham in a game played in Haliburton, Monday night. After being down 5-0 at the end of the second inning, Haliburton came back with six runs in the third, six in the fourth, and four in the fifth, on their way to the victory.

Open fire ban lifted in Algonquin Region

A ban on open fires, in effect since May 25, has been lifted today in Algonquin Region, Natural Resources Minister, Frank S. Miller said today.

Favorable weather conditions, co-operation of the public and our ability to control the few remaining small fires enabled us to remove Algonquin Region as a restricted fire zone, Mr. Miller said.

Removal of open fire restrictions in the region will permit campfires again in the Algonquin Park interior.

The open fire ban continues, however, in most of the Ontario North of the French River system where the danger of forest fires remains. In a restricted fire zone no person may start a fire outdoors for cooking or warmth except in a portable stove or charcoal installation.

Campfires are not permitted in any provincial park in the Northern Ontario restricted fire zone. Here is no restriction of travel in the north, but tourists, campers and fishermen are urged to be extremely careful with smoking materials.

In Quetico Park, in North-western Ontario, campers will not be permitted into the interior without an approved portable stove.

While the open fire ban has been lifted in the Algonquin Region, severe drought conditions continue to exist and it may be necessary to re-impose restrictions should the risk or incidence of man-caused fires increase, Mr. Miller said.

We very much appreciate the co-operation we have received from the public over the past 10 days and I hope that it will continue, he added.

Mr. Miller also reminded the public that even though campfires are now allowed in Algonquin Region, fire permits are still required for debris and refuse burning.

Permits are available at no cost, from Ministry of Natural Resources offices throughout the region.

Circus to have two performances

The Martin and Downs Circus comes to Haliburton Thursday, sponsored by the Haliburton Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion.

The tent circus will be held at the Community Centre grounds with two shows, 6 p.m. and 8 p.m.

The tent is fire and waterproof. It is 70 feet by 130 feet, which a press release states is "big enough to be enjoyed, small enough to be seen by all."

It is made up of over 9,000 square feet of heavy duct canvas, and over two miles of rope.

It takes the circus' crew approximately four hours to set up the tent and they can take it down in one and a half hours.

The circus tours from early May until mid Sept. visiting 130 cities and towns across Canada each season with over 250 performances given rain or shine. The circus performance features 90 minutes of trained animal and variety acts. Strictly family entertainment.

All supplies are bought locally on a daily basis; gasoline, diesel fuel, groceries for the cook house and private performers, hard-way, hay, animal feed, etc. The daily expense of presenting the circus is $1800.00.

The circus uses between 75 and 150 old time circus posters daily, plus local newspaper advertising and a mail out circus flyer.

In addition to the main circus performance in the big top, the circus operates an animal and children's petting zoo, giant killer

Python snake exhibit, and pony rides for the children. Also, there is a refreshment stand and souvenir stand. All are a separate charge and prices are kept reasonable. Each season the concession dept. pops enough popcorn to fill a semi trailer five times.

"We are proud to carry on the tradition of the tent circus. We also respect our customers and will try to present one of the most up to date touring tent circuses while still retaining the old time atmosphere. Remember to see the circus in its true prospective you must look at it through the eyes of a child."

"Our circus is featured in an hour documentary by the National Film Board of Canada. Look for the movie 'High Grass Circus'. It will be shown on national television in the near future," a release states.

Kinsmen Happenings

The regular meeting of the Haliburton Kinsmen Club was held at the Old Barn Tavern on May 31, 1977.

Harburn Wells Chairman, Murray Stephenson, reports that two students, Wally Rolands and Steve Bonnich, have been hired to the work on the project starting at the end of June.

Bob Nichol was appointed chairman for the upcoming "Installation Night" to be held at the Hunter's Horn Inn on June 28, 1977. This night will mark a visit from Deputy Governor Don Crowe of the Minden Kinsmen Club, who will at this time install the new executive for the next Kinsmen year.

Home Show Chairman, Dick McClean, reported that there are two booths (16' x 10') left for the Home Show on June 17, 18, 1977. Please contact Dick at LaRue Motors, 457-1052 if you are interested in one of these booths.

On June 9, 1977, Pres. Richard Biaci and his wife Sally, will be attending the annual Spring Mixed Conference to be held in Orillia. At this conference, President Richard will have six votes to cast for the chair of Vice-Governor of District Eight.

The next regular meeting of the Haliburton Kinsmen Club will be held at the Old Barn Tavern on June 14, 1977, with the theme being Home Show Night.

Dear Mr. Davis;

In principal #3 outlined in your Charter for Ontario you state: Real freedom can be achieved and maintained only when government is prepared to limit its growth, power and costs. If in fact this is your principal Mr. Davis you must look back on your past 6 years as a total disgrace. In the future you ask us for more power to implement your new ministries, your new policies, your new ambitions and at the same time cut costs. My you are a Miracle.

HOUSING:

Since you took office there has been no long term plan for housing, an interest rate that hit 13% and a stunning increase in bureaucratic red tape.

JOBS

It is your policy's that have chased developers and thus jobs out of Ontario. Your policies that make housing development a 3 to 5 year bureaucratic nightmare. Your policies that make small business question the value of proceeding.

JOB CREATION

Your policy is to hire students in different government agencies such as counting fish taken from lakes - You pay them $5.50 to $6.00 per hour. I ask you is this fair to the local people who on the average earn less and have to raise a family?

*Is this part of your equal pay for equal work program?
Is this fair to the majority of students that can't find work or work for near minimum wage?*

COST INCREASES

We the taxpayers have paid dearly for an education system brought by you when education minister. Are we now going to be burdened by further increases in Hydro - Health Care, Social Welfare and Taxes?

We now pay 8% of our tax dollar to pay interest on money borrowed by your government.

GOVERNMENT SPENDING

You say you have a commitment to reducing unnecessary waste in all social spending.

I am happy to see you admit it but what have you done in the past 6 years to correct it.

In fact you have through government bureaucracy made it worse.

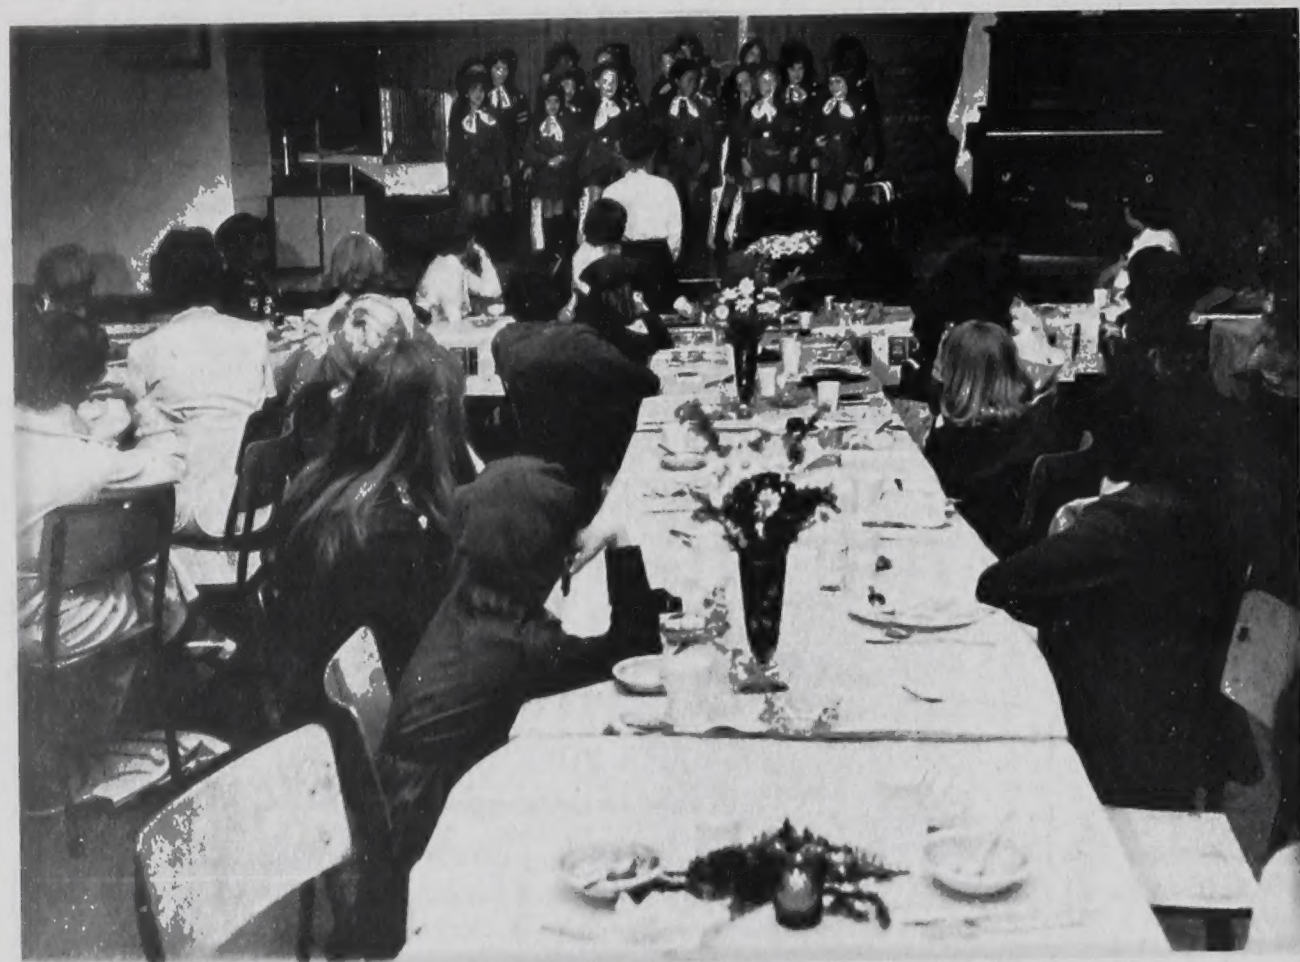

You said you would cut government spending in the past 2 elections but in fact we are now passing on to our children the largest debts ever; with more to come.

To the voter I can only say Be careful of the handshaking, backslapping politician who can not answer your questions directly.

For those of you who wish more integrity in Government

Mobile classroom on construction safety

The construction site is a dangerous place to work. In order to alert construction workers in the Haliburton area to the hazards of their jobs, a mobile classroom manned by Construction Safety Association of Ontario instructors will visit construction in the Village of Minden on Thursday, June 9, 1977, at 10:00 a.m. and 1:00 p.m. to provide on the site instruction, discussion and audio-visual presentations.

Last year 17 construction workers in Haliburton County suffered serious injuries which resulted in time lost from their work. There were no fatalities in Haliburton County. In Ontario, there were 18,460 construction injuries and 39 fatalities in 1976. The majority of these injuries could have been prevented through a greater awareness of jobsite hazards.

The Construction Safety Association mobile classroom is a large tractor trailer that will park on or immediately adjacent to the construction site. Workmen will be given time off work to attend the meeting where instructors will show VTR films of the site and discuss the specific hazards evident.

Agriculture and Food we have had Marketing Boards for the dairy farmer; poultry and eggs; fresh fruit and vegetables. Drainage and farm improvement loans. The Ontario Beef Calf Income Stabilization Program on a provincial basis of 20 million dollars and for Victoria-Haliburton beef farmers a benefit in excess of 1 million dollars. Farmers reported beef cows 17 thousand, 385 at $58.42 per head. Mr. Webster said the Ministry of Housing is responsible for senior citizens' and low rental housing units in Lindsay, Bobcaygeon, Fenelon Falls and Ormeau, with financial assistance to new home buyers. "The Ministry of Health has established the finest medical and health program of any province in all of Canada with established Red Cross Hospitals in Minden and Haliburton and the Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay. County Public Health Unit with its dental immunization, home care and various health programs. This ministry pays a 75 per cent subsidy for all water purification installations and sanitation programs," he said.

Mr. Webster noted that the Ministry of Education grants to county Boards of Education total more than 1 1/2 million dollars annually. The Frost Campus facility in Lindsay was funded entirely by the Province of Ontario.

"Ministries of Community and Social Services and Governmental Services: Salaries and payrolls paid to the employees amount to over 2 million per year; 90 per cent of which is spent within the area of Victoria-Haliburton Counties," he said.

Mr. Webster outlined more work done by the provincial government through the various ministries including the roads projects within Victoria-Haliburton.

I am also proud to be associated with a party that is historically associated with this riding of ours that produced the very father of Conservatism in Ontario, the late and Honourable Leslie Frost," he commented.

Mr. Webster noted that the Constituency Office, in Lindsay, was initiated by and is paid for by the provincial government of Ontario. That is a fact, despite what you may have heard to the contrary.

Comments from Ottawa by MP Bill Scott

During the last week of May it was my pleasure and privilege to attend the Spring Conference of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) as a member of the Canadian Parliamentary delegation to the North Atlantic Assembly.

The rule book defines the North Atlantic Assembly as follows - "The North Atlantic Assembly is a body of parliamentary delegates who meet once a year in plenary session, and who are selected from among members of parliament of member countries of NATO."

The Assembly is the forum within which the parliamentary delegates discuss issues of common interest to the governments of member nations, and, it also provides a means of exchanging information on matters of military, scientific and political interest to the members, and to the Alliance itself.

During the week of the conference we attended symposiums, where papers were presented by members selected in advance. The reading of papers was followed by discussions, and afterwards the pertinent committee ruled on whether the paper, or parts of it, should be approved as being a consensus opinion of the Assembly.

Although there is a provision for providing support staff for the member countries' delegations, all members of the Assembly are elected representatives of the governments of the member countries.

The papers presented at the symposiums are prepared by members who are designated Rapporteurs. These Rapporteurs are selected at meetings immediately prior to the meeting at which the papers are to be presented, thus allowing the Rapporteur several months to prepare the paper.

I attended symposiums of the committees on Military, Scientific and Technical, and Political matters. Throughout the sessions I was impressed by the thoroughness of the research done by the Rapporteurs, and of the wealth of information presented on the topics covered in the symposiums.

During the week before I left for the meeting, which was held in Brussels, I attended daily briefings by military officials to prepare myself for the military sessions at the Assembly meeting. Because of the fact that NATO is primarily a defence alliance of Western nations, offsetting the threat of the Warsaw Pact nations, the military briefings and sessions are an important aspect of these meetings.

However, I learned on this trip that NATO means a great deal more to its member nations than just a defence alliance, and a forum for the exchange of military hardware and information.

NATO members exchange information and expertise on a wide variety of scientific, technical and political matters, ranging from the latest techniques for obtaining fresh water to the search for a safe means of disposing of nuclear waste, and from the research into alternate sources of energy to the promotion of nutrition and health into alternate sources of energy to the promotion of nutrition and health in developing nations.

I was particularly interested in the symposium on the disposal of hazardous waste, in other words, the long-term safe disposal of nuclear waste. The sessions on this topic bore out the fact that one of the most difficult problems facing nations that use nuclear reactors in the generation of electricity, is how to dispose of the waste material from the reactors.

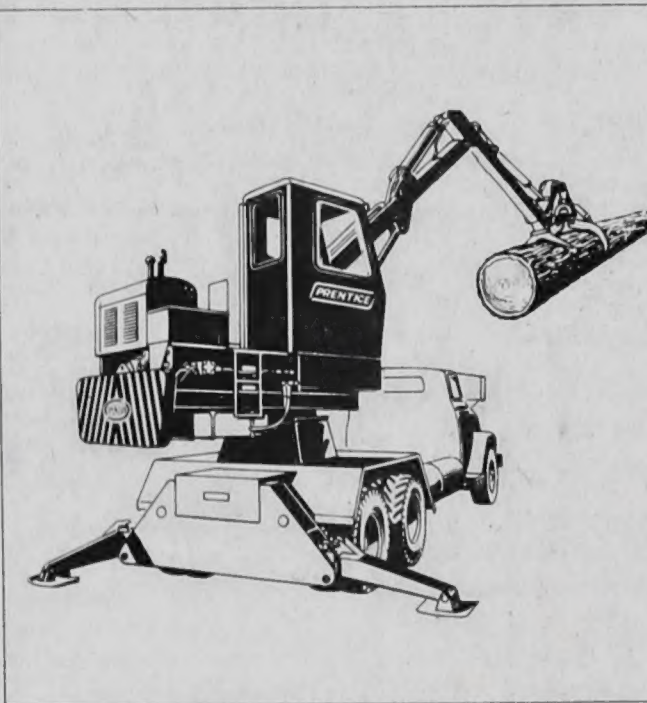

Canada is presently faced with this problem, and we have not worked out a solution to the problem. But, neither has any other member country of NATO. Like other countries, we are only involved right now in short-term care of nuclear waste, but we are going to have to work out a safe, acceptable means of permanent storage of the waste.

Gems of Truth

In our day and age when human life seems to be looked upon as of no real value except to serve the whims of the state, it becomes very needful that a clear concept of the true value and sacredness of human life, as looked upon by the Creator of it, be firmly established. This source of information comes to us by way of His revealed Word and not from the imagination of human intelligence.

The sacredness of human life was not made known for the first time when the Law of Sinai spelled out the prohibition to "not kill." Exodus 20:13. That edit only re-affirmed and brought more prominence to it. A careful reading of the Word of God will reveal that human life was sacred from the time of its creation. When the Triune God in consultation said: "Let us make man in Our image, and after Our likeness," there was embodied in that decision that human life would be sacred. Genesis 1:26. A being created after the image and likeness of God could be nothing else but sacred.

After the flood in Noah's day, God made a covenant with him and the sacredness of human life was again emphasized. It is thus that we read, "and surely your blood of your lives will I require, at the hand of every beast will I require it, and at the hand of man; at the hand of every man's brother will I require the life of man. Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed; for in the image of God made He man." Genesis 9:5-6. The sixth commandment, as given to Moses, was simply confirming and fortifying a truth that had already been made known to man.

Some translations use the word murder instead of kill and perhaps this clarifies the sixth commandment a little better. It shows that there is a difference between murder and killing. A murder is a killing, but all killing is not necessarily murder. There is such a thing as a judicial killing carried out by the constituted legal authorities when a culprit has committed a crime punishable by death. The Word of God recognizes this and it contains laws that cover various conditions that might arise.

The Mosaic law recognized that a man might be killed when there was no intention to kill, as by accident. Deut. 4:42. Such a case was not considered a capital crime. Nevertheless, it was a case that could not simply be shrugged off by the authorities. In such a case the person responsible for the killing could flee into one of the cities of refuge where he would have protection and where his case would be investigated by proper channels. Numbers 35:9-34. This given provision showed mercy and saved a person from the avenging anger of an enemy. It recognized the sacredness of human life and the responsibility of the state to protect it. But, murder, however, was dealt with drastically. The murderer was given a fair trial and was condemned only on good evidence of his guilt. Verse 30. The Jewish law against murder was a continuation of the command given to Noah, and this commandment has never been revoked by Divine command. The enormity of the crime justifies the severity of the penalty.

It is true that the teachings of Jesus in the New Testament goes much deeper than the actual act of killing and takes us to its true source. This covers a lot of territory ordinarily bypassed in man's thinking and leaves him without a true evaluation of the sin of killing, whether it be swift or slow. A new look at the clamor for abortion laws would possibly be taken if the sacredness of human life could be implanted into the minds of God's creation which He had declared as very good. Gen. 1:31. Surely, this way of taking human life does not come with His approval and blessing. The act reaches deep into the thought life of God's sacred creation and spells nothing but the disregard for the Law of the Creator. (Continued next week.)

another to propose a program which would be viable, honest and imaginative. Therefore I would like to take the rest of my allotted time to outline a few approaches a New Democratic government would take to help solve some of the problems faced by this province and this constituency," he pointed out.

"In the area of small business, which in our case would include tourism because of what nature has given us, we would set up a financial agency which would help small business people cope with their financial needs - to give them the needed assistance which they cannot get under our present government."

"One project about which I am very enthusiastic is the establishment of methyl alcohol plants in Ontario. The methyl alcohol is produced from wood and can be used as an alternate energy supply to gasoline. Haliburton is an ideal location for such a plant and I would fight very hard for the establishment of one in this area if elected. Because Haliburton is situated on the Canadian Shield there would be no interference with good farmland. Sir Sanford Fleming College has the facilities to provide the technical skill required. Most of the jobs would be in reforestation. By the way, such a plant has the capacity to provide up to 40,000 jobs and because of the renewable aspect they would be permanent jobs. Besides this there would be a large number of immediate jobs in the construction of such a plant."

"As far as the pollution of our lakes and rivers, I am sure that you are all aware that this is one of the primary concerns of the New Democratic Party. We have been trying for some time now to get the Conservative government to take some action. I can assure that, if we become the government in this election, positive action will be taken to clean up our lakes, to prevent any further deterioration of the situation, and to take long overdue action against the offenders," he said.

Education comments by Eakins

Over the weekend John Eakins, Liberal incumbent in Victoria-Haliburton, issued the following statement on New Directions for Education: "I believe that the people of Victoria and Haliburton counties are very well served by their respective Boards of Education and the teachers in their employ. Within the framework of the County Board System a good job is being done. Therefore let nobody construe my remarks to be critical of any individual but rather, let it be known that I believe some changes are required in Ontario's Education Policy."

"The education system in Ontario is financially supported by the people in the belief that a literate, skilled and articulate population is vital for the well being of the province. Mr. Eakins questions, 'Is this vital social function being performed properly?'"

Mr. Eakins went on to say that the people of Ontario are concerned. In fact, the Minister of Education has stated publicly that Ontario schools are in a period of "reduced credibility."

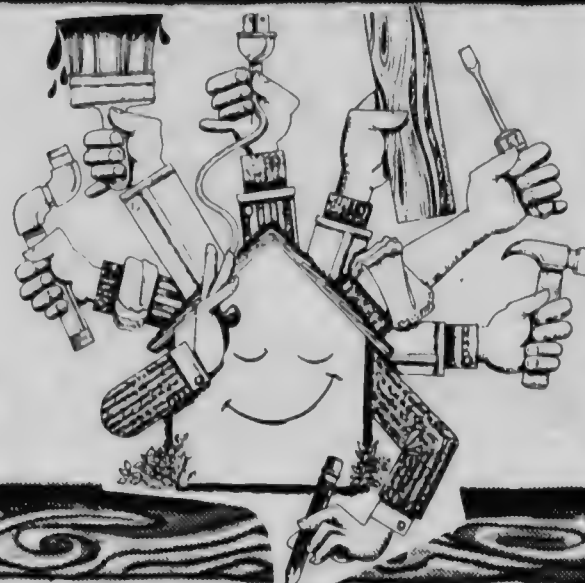

(Toronto Star, May 3, 1976.) In the same article, Mr. Wells is quoted as saying the public is "uneasy" and "frustrated" by developments in the school system. "examples for concern are that: Pupils are placed in an environment where the degree of free choice is excessive for their level of maturity and inconsistent with that of the real world, creating unrealistic expectations; methods of assessing performance are sufficiently lacking in objective standards that pupils have little basis on which to judge accomplishment; concerned parents experience difficulty in helping their children choose programs because the content and goals of courses have become exceedingly ambiguous," he said.

To deal with these problems, Mr. Eakins emphasized

Home of the Week

This well designed contemporary home has the exterior finish in diagonal natural wood, complimented by a heavy textured shake roof. An alternative could be an attractive colored asphalt shingle blending with the red tones of brick veneer.

An expansive living room is created by vaulted ceiling and an open stairway to the bedroom floor. A warm, cosy touch is added by the wood-burning fireplace. At the kitchen end of this large room is the dining area with plenty of room for a family size dining suite.

The large compact kitchen is handy to the dining room through a pocket door and is open to the family room, where an eating nook, for informal meals could be arranged. Sliding glass doors open to a big partially covered patio at the side.

An inner hall, off the family room, opens to a convenient utility and vanity washroom. There is also a direct door to the double garage and a door to the stairs that lead to a complete unfinished basement suitable for future expansion.

On the second floor the bedrooms are serviced by a unique two part bathroom. Doubling as a powder room, the first section has a large vanity with basin and mirrored walls. A pocket door leads to a three piece bath with vanity, which enables the dual service.

The large master bedroom has a three piece vanity shower - ensuite for complete contemporary luxury.

Plan for Design No. 76-1657 may be obtained at a cost of $60 for the first set and $9 for each additional set, plus $3.50 for postage and handling. B.C. residents please include 7 per cent sales tax.

Send for the current edition of Select Home Designs, Series #33, featuring imaginative decorating and home improvement ideas plus more than 300 quality home plans of every type. Available for $2.25 ($1.75 plus 50 cents postage and handling). To order these items please send cheque or money order payable to the Home of the Week. Changes needed in education sized that, "Our education system must be accountable: to the people of Ontario; to the pupils in Ontario schools; to the parents of these pupils; to the school teachers in Ontario.

"I believe that it can be achieved only if standards are developed that specify what is expected of Ontario's public school system. It is necessary to introduce performance standards on a province-wide basis so that pupils, parents, teachers, and administrators have a yardstick against which to evaluate their accomplishments," he said.

Mr. Eakins supported his point by stating that, "A good student from Haliburton County could lose a University seat to a good student from some other municipality because of an inferior average. In the absence of some provincial standard, how does anyone know which student is better? Suffice it to say Ontario's policy needs some reform."
